Disinfection and Decontamination in Hospitals and Healthcare

September 2nd/3rd 2013 in Manchester

The IBBS, in conjunction with BACS, is pleased to announce their major conference “Disinfection and Decontamination in Hospitals and Healthcare”, the meeting being organised to coincide with the publication of a reference book of the same title with the main speakers some of those who have made contributions to this book. In addition, posters will also be invited with a prize for the best poster being offered. The meeting will take place at Chancellors Hotel and Conference Centre at the University of Manchester.

Over 100 delegates will be attending and will include specialists in infection prevention and control, HCAI managers, specialist nurses, microbiologists, estate and facilities managers, heads of innovation, leads in acute care, and others from the NHS, care home providers, private hospitals, central government, academia and the voluntary sector.

Keynote Speaker Prof Brian Duerden, CBE, MD

Brian is currently the Emeritus Professor of Medical Microbiology, Cardiff University and the former Inspector of Microbiology and Infection Control at the Department of Health. He is the UK authority on decontamination and disinfection and was closely involved with a number of innovative technologies that have been developed in the last decade and trialled in Foundation Hospitals.
